

Tuppercare – Drug Prevention Intended for Women from Minority Population Groups Living in Belgium

ŠRAHŮLKOVÁ, K.

Department of School and Educational Psychology, Faculty of Education, Charles University in Prague, Czech Republic

Citation: Šrahůlková, K. (2009). Tuppercare – drogová prevence určená pro ženy z minoritních skupin obyvatel žijících v Belgii. Adiktologie, (9)3, 152–155.

SUMMARY: The article describes a drug prevention programme which I became familiar with during my internship in Belgium. Belgium is a country with a large number of immigrants from a range of countries. This programme focuses on the two largest minority population groups, immigrants from Morocco and Turkey. It is specifically designed for women. The goal of this article is to provide information about this type of preventive programme and preventive work carried out in Belgium. The article is also intended to stimulate ideas about other forms of preventive work.

KEY WORDS: PRIMARY PREVENTION PROGRAMME – MINORITY POPULATIONS – WOMEN

Submitted: 14 / JUNE / 2009

Accepted: 16 / JULY / 2009

Address for correspondence: Kateřina Šrahůlková / katerina.srahulkova@gmail.com / Department of School and Educational Psychology, Faculty of Education, Charles University in Prague, Myslíkova 7, 110 00 Prague 1, Czech Republic